This year's Rome Film Fest awaits us with world-famous special guests and a wide array of films at the Auditorium Parco della Musica and other locations throughout the city. The 16th edition of the Festa del Cinema will kick off on October 14 and last until the by Jessica Chastain. This biographical drama reveals great truths about humanity - the first of many films of the Rome Film Fest. The Fest, which this year features Uma Thurman as its official image in her performance in Kill Bill: Volume 2 by Quentin Tarantino. A cult figure of cinema representing energy, freedom, and passion symbolism for the fight for cinema to reestablish itself and resurge. With such a strong protagonist present in the official image of the Film Fest, there's no doubt this year's event will be exceptional.

As in past editions, Close Encounters will not be missing. We will find Tim Burton, awarded the Lifetime Achievement Award, considered one of the most original filmmakers. Another Encounter guest will be Quentin Tarantino, Oscar winning director and screenwriter, one of the most revolutionary characters in the American cinema scene. Recalling the theme of strength depicted by the official image of this year's event, Rome Film Fest welcomes Zadie Smith: author of White Teeth, On Beauty, and numerous short stories, a powerful voice of her generation, and a strong female presence among contemporary literary voices.

As for the Retrospective, as always curated by Mario Sesti, we will get a chance to honour Arthur Penn, well-loved author in the history of cinema. The director from the States known to produce for the screens of cinemas, has also marvelled our home screens on television, and the stages of theatres.

While last years The Films of our Lives were out-of-this-world, with the theme of science fiction, this year the Rome Film Fest will lighten it up a bit and focus on guilty pleasures. Movies that have shaped the organisers of the event, and marked their passion for cinema, all carefully selected by them for us. And before each screening, as per tradition now, there will be short sequences of film themed: duels of genre. Whether that be a showdown between the most famous westerns and science fiction, or musicals vs. action movies, the Film Fest is ready to bring you along a screening of polarities before each film.

Check out the whole program by visiting the Festival's official website, but don't forget that with the Rome Film Fest, all of Rome will be involved! Not only can you enjoy of the Auditorium, but there will be events in various cultural locations such as the MAXXI, the Casa del Cinema, and other movie theatres throughout the capital.
